SUMMARY

---

An passionate and experienced mobile application developer with a solid foundation in iOS app development, I have worked on impactful projects demonstrating the best practices of developing applications user-friendly and efficient. Through this academic background and practical experience, I specialize in designing, developing, and deploying mobile solutions that enhance user experiences and address real-world challenges.

Currently, I am working to lead a social initiative that has reduced food waste. I bring technical know-how together with a problem-solving mindset to deliver innovative solutions aligned both with business and community objectives.

PROJECTS
